

Family Friendly America

Wyoming

Wyoming workers need public policies that allow them to better manage the dual demands of work and family. Family friendly workplace laws help workers maintain their economic security when they give birth, adopt, raise children or grandchildren, deal with illness, and care for parents, grandparents, spouses or partners.

Working Families by the Numbers

- 134,761 Wyoming women work, making up 45 percent of the state workforce.¹
- 8,877 Wyoming residents gave birth between 2008 and 2009.²
- 88,669 Wyoming children (72 percent) live in families where all parents work.³
- 9,209 Wyoming grandparents live with grandchildren who are under 18.⁴
- 55,000 Wyoming residents serve as family caregivers.⁵

Existing Family Friendly Workplace Laws

Wyoming workers do not have access to workplace leave or breastfeeding protections beyond those provided by federal law. There is also no pending legislation in Wyoming that would expand on federal law in these areas.
